Description:

The importance of Research Methodology and Scientific Writing:

Research Methodology is the structured approach that guides the process of scientific investigation, ensuring accurate data collection, minimizing biases, and upholding ethical standards. It forms the foundation for credible research outcomes and contributes to the development of new knowledge. Scientific Writing, on the other hand, is the avenue through which researchers share their findings with the world. Clear and precise scientific writing not only communicates research effectively but also undergoes peer review, fostering knowledge dissemination, replication, and collaboration within the scientific community. Together, Research Methodology and Scientific Writing are essential pillars that drive meaningful progress in the realm of science.

About the Speaker:

Dr. Vikas M. obtained his Graduation in Civil Engineering from NITTE-udupi, Post Graduate degree in Marine Structures from NITK-Surathal. He has recently pursued his PhD from Department of water resources and Ocean Engineering, NITK-Surathkal. His area of interest are Tidal Energy and Coastal Engineering. He has about 8 years of teaching experience and 5 years of Research Experience. He has guided 6 under graduate projects. He is working in RV college of Engineering since 2015.
